Talking Jar Labels

A free bonus from The Amish Pantry Shelf

How they work. Every recipe in the book has its own label. Stick it on the jar. When it is time to cook, anyone in the family, or anyone who receives the jar as a gift, scans the square code with the phone's camera. The phone shows how much water to add for a quart or a pint jar, the cooking steps, and a kitchen timer that rings when it is done.

How to print. The labels fit standard 2 x 4 inch sheets with 10 labels per page (Avery 5163, 8163 or any label with the same layout). Print at Actual size or 100%, not "Fit to page". Print one page on plain paper first and hold it behind a label sheet against a window to check the alignment.

Only need a few? Print just the pages you need: the labels are in the same order as the book, chapter by chapter. You can also print on plain paper, cut the labels out and tape them on, or tie them on as tags.

Write the date. Each label has a space for the day you filled the jar and the use-by date from the recipe page.

Lost a label? Every recipe's steps and timer are also on the bonus page: amish-pantry-shelf.pages.dev
